

Teaching Assistant Award

Each year, students and course instructors are able to recognize outstanding graduate student teaching assistants by nominating them for a Graduate Student Teaching Award. Twenty awards of $500 are presented annually to graduate students. Award recipients are selected by the GSTA Committee based on the results of standard evaluations and written comments provided by nominees' students.

TA Award recipients were honoured during a reception ceremony with University President Dr. Amit Chakma which was held in June 2014 at the Great Hall. The awards are sponsored by the Society of Graduate Students (SOGS), the School of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies (SGPS) and PSAC 610.

M. Ajmal Khan, a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering received a Teaching Assistant Award for the year 2013-14.
